CLYDE, one of the largest rivers of Scotland, rising in the south part of Lanarkshire, and forming an arm of the sea, called the Firth of Clyde, near the castle of Dumbarton. It becomes navigable at the city of Glasgow. The first boat in Europe successfully propelled by steam was launched on this river in 1812; and since then the river's shipping and shipbuilding have both grown enormously. Near Lanark the river descends from 560 to 200 feet, forming the celebrated Falls of Clyde, above which flows a beautiful trout stream, passing through a fertile valley amid lovely scenery. The waters become more sluggish and polluted as it nears Glasgow, and large sums of money have been spent in improving and deepening the channel from Glasgow to Dumbarton, with great success. Along the ancient sea-moargin of the river is an almost continuous line of watering-places, much frequented during the summer months. On its banks are some of the largest shipbuilding and marine engineering works in the world

The public buildings are numerous and attractive, many of them magnificent edifices. Among those of most interest are:—Holyrood Palace; the Castle; Parliament House; the University; the New University Buildings, including the M'Ewan Hall (1897), gifted by Wm. M'Ewan, M.P. GLASGOW, the commercial and manufacturing capital of Scotland, and, in aggregate importance, the second city in the empire. Situated on the Clyde, 46½ miles Caledonian Railway and 47½ North British Railway from Edinburgh, and 401 miles from London. It is the political capital of Lanarkshire, a royal and parliamentary burgh, a county, a university city, seat of judiciary and sheriff courts, and a head port. Originated from the cathedral founded about A.D. 560; was made a royal burgh in 1180; and was but a small burgh of limited extent in 1550. Its great and continued prosperity—entirely the result of enterprise and skill in manufactures and commerce—only dates from the 18th century. Its present vast predominance testifies to the vitality and energy of its citizens. In the fifty years between 1831 and 1881 it considerably more than trebled its population, and now, including suburbs, measures 12 miles by 7 and is of such magnitude that space will not admit here of even a meagre description. The public buildings are both numerous and handsome, and include many very interesting and noble structures. The Cathedral, the University, the Merchants' House, the General Post Office, and the Royal Exchange, may be mentioned. The Municipal buildings, opened by Queen Victoria, 22nd August 1888, cost about £700,000, including £170,000 paid for the site. The charitable institutions are many, the most important being the Royal, Western, and Victoria Infirmarys, Fever Hospitals, Small-pox Hospital, Maternity Hospital, Asylum for the Blind, Deaf and Dumb Institute, Lunatic Asylum, &c. It has various scientific and literary institutions, including a museum and many public libraries, also a Botanic Garden, several public parks and many monuments—no fewer than 13 standing in George Square. The Churches are Established, Free, United Free, Episcopal, Baptist, Evangelical Union, Congregational, Wesleyan, Roman Catholic, Catholic Apostolic, Methodist, Christadelphian, Original Secession, Unitarian, Plymouth Brethren, Society of Friends, Christian Brethren, and a Jewish Synagogue.—The harbour shared in the prosperity of the city, and by extensions from time to time, necessitated by increasing trade, acquired its present greatness at a cost of £8,000,000. In 1801 the quays of the harbour was only 382 yards in length, the water area 4 acres; the revenue from the harbour and river £3400. In 1906 the length of the quays was 17,907 yards, the area of the harbour and docks 479½ acres, of which 166½ is land and 313 water, and the revenue £528,569. For about 2½ miles from Glasgow Bridge the river presents the appearance of an immense dock, and is deep enough for the largest sea-going ships. The harbour possesses all the appliances of a first-class port, and is connected with the whole railway system of the kingdom. Headquarters of the great shipbuilding and marine engineering trade of the

Clyde. The imports (1906) were valued at £14,294,421, and the exports at £23,997,341, which is only exceeded by Liverpool. Pop. 760,468

HEBRIDES, THE, as now understood, includes all the Western Islands from the Mull of Kintyre to Cape Wrath, consisting of a series of groups of islands and rocky islets extending 205 miles—from the Butt of Lewis to the Mull of Oa, in Islay—along the weird, wild, and romantic coast of the West Highlands. The distance of the various islands from the mainland varies from less than  $\frac{1}{4}$  a mile at Kyle Rhea, south-east of Skye, to over 200 miles to lone St Kilda, and from 14 miles at Gigha to 21 at the south of Islay. The entire number of these islands and islets exceeds 500, but only about 180 are of any value. Of these, 99 were inhabited in 1901, and had a population of 79,159. Lewis and Harris, Skye, Mull, Isley, Jura, and North and South Uists are the principal islands. These are very much diversified as regards scenery—that of Skye and other islands of the Inner Hebrides being the grandest scenery perhaps in Scotland; the scenery of Lewis and other islands of the Outer Hebrides is less picturesque, but a peculiar feature of these is the immense number of fresh water lochs scattered everywhere, and yielding some of the best salmon and trout fishing in Scotland. Most of the islands are extensively intersected by inlets and arms of the sea, affording safe and sheltered anchorage. The Lords of the Isles and the Insular Chiefs of the various turbulent clans have left numerous monuments of their ambition and their rule, in the form of towers and castles; and the remains of the religious establishments testify to the Christian zeal and piety of former generations.

A small district between the counties of Banff and Moray, is annexed, and several of the Hebrides—Skye, Harris, North and South Uist, Benbecula, Barra, Raasay, Eigg, St Kilda, and others. The inland portion is divided into two almost equal parts by the Great Glen and the Caledonian Canal, the northern extremity of this glen opens by the river Ness into the Moray Firth, and flowing in a south-westerly direction encloses Lochs Ness, Oich, Lochy, and Eil, whence it extends into the Atlantic Ocean by Loch Linnhe. In the northern part is Strath Glass, with its tributaries running into the Firth of Beaulieu. The county is noted for its unsurpassed romantic scenery; its glens and mountains. It contains Ben Nevis, the highest mountain in Britain, which attains a height of 4,406 feet, and several other ranges which present some of the finest mountain scenery in the world. It is well watered, the principal rivers being the Ness, the Lochy, the Beaulie, and the Spey. The Caledonian Canal connects the east and west seas from Loch Eil on the west to the Moray Firth on the east coast. The west coast is indented by numerous salt-water lochs. There are extensive grouse moors and deer forests, game being very plentiful; the rivers abound with salmon, and in the lochs the char is found in great perfection. Only a small portion of the land is cultivated, the greater part being moor and heathy ground; black sheep are reared in large numbers, also cattle. SUTHERLANDSHIRE, a county, extending across the whole breadth of Scotland, from the North Sea to the Atlantic Ocean. It is bounded on the west by the Minch, north by the Atlantic Ocean, east by the county of Caithness, south-east by the Dornoch Firth, and south by the Oickel and several smaller streams, which separates it from the county of Ross and Cromarty. The surface of the county is rugged and mountainous, except on the south-east shore. The eastern district, near the German Ocean, consists of a strip of level land which runs along the coast side; the middle or central district, resembles the other parts of the Highlands of Scotland, it contains the valleys of the rivers of Helmsdale, Brora, Fleet, and Oickel, with their tributary streams issuing from the neighbouring mountains. The shores bordering the Atlantic are wild, rocky, and mountainous. The Assynt Mountains are huge and barren, but the glens between afford excellent pasture for sheep. On the coasts of the numerous bays many tracts of land have been brought under cultivation, but the climate, from the constant rain and mists, is unfavourable to the growth of crops. The principal rivers are the Oickel, which enters the Firth of Dornoch, and is navigable for about 12 miles from its mouth, the Water of Fleet, the Water of Brora, the Water of Helmsdale, the Water of Hallidale, the Water of Strathly, the Naver, the Waters of Kerdoch, Hope, Dionard, and Eribol. There are also lakes, the chief being Loch Assynt, Loch Elphin, Loch Leighal, Loch More, and Loch Shin, the last of which stretches 20 miles north-west to south-east, is about one mile broad and abounds with salmon and trout. There are extensive deer forests, and abundance of all kinds of game. The Duke of Sutherland is the largest landowner. The minerals include rock crystals, pebbles, and garnets. WIGTOWNSHIRE, a county, bounded on the east by Kirkcubrightshire, south and west by the Irish Sea, and north by Ayrshire. The county is irregular and deeply indented by Loch Ryan and Luce Bay, which forms the Rhinns of Galloway (q.v.) The richest lands lie near the coast and on the banks of the rivers. The rising grounds in the east through the parish of Wigtown and the lower parts of Penningham are for the most part fit for tillage. The peninsula, called the Rhinns, is also good arable land. The hills in this part of the county rise to a considerable height, and act as a barrier against the westerly winds. The north districts called the Moors are bleak and hilly; they occupy nearly one-half of the county, and contain only a few patches of arable land. The principal rivers are the Cree, the Bladenock, the Tarff, the Luce, and others. The climate is mild and humid. The chief crops are oats and barley, also wheat, potatoes, and turnips. Slate and marble are found. Wigtownshire returns one member to Parliament. Area, 311,609 acres. Pop. 32,685

Indispensable to every Counting-House, Library, Club, and Hotel Commercial Room.

THIS popular Directory contains classified lists of the Manufacturers, Merchants, Traders, Agents, and Dealers throughout the Kingdom, and embraces over TWO THOUSAND of the Scottish Cities, Towns, and Villages. Each is annually canvassed personally by competent Agents, solely employed on the Company's Publications. The type is kept standing, thus reducing errors to a minimum. In the Gazetteer Section brief notices are given of the Cities, Towns, Parishes, Villages, and other territorial divisions in the Kingdom. Some idea may thus be formed of the labour and cost of collecting and arranging the information, and of the utility of the work as a reliable Book of Reference.

PRESS OPINIONS.

The Times

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—The work which Messrs Kelly have done so long and so successfully for London, and for England and Wales, Messrs Wm. Macdonald & Co., Ltd., Edinburgh, have accomplished for Scotland and for its two capitals. Many thousand names have been added to this edition. All possible justice is done even to the most distant parts of Scotland. . . . The work is thoroughly business-like in its scope and object.

The Scotsman

"The Scottish Directory and Gazetteer" is a useful and well-arranged book of business addresses covering the whole of Scotland. . . . Much credit is due to the compilers for their enterprise and industry in collecting the information. The general arrangement of the Directory remains the same as before. . . . In this issue the work has been thoroughly revised and brought abreast of recent changes.

The Daily Record (Glasgow)

Messrs William Macdonald & Co., Ltd., the Directory and Time-Table specialists, Edinburgh, send us a copy of their "Scottish Directory and Gazetteer," which has been thoroughly revised to date, and now presents trade lists which will probably bear the minutest inspection as to accuracy. At anyrate, in a few rather difficult tests to which we have subjected the Directory, we have found it correct.

Glasgow Herald

The Directory, which has over 1000 pages, is furnished with a general map of Scotland and plans of the leading towns. The Gazetteer portion is a very useful feature, as it contains a list of the towns and villages of Scotland alphabetically arranged, together with brief information regarding population, etc. The book has been thoroughly revised and brought up to date, and the lists have been considerably extended.

Birmingham Daily Record

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—Messrs William Macdonald & Co., Ltd., Edinburgh, the Kellys of North Britain, have just issued another annual and much-enlarged edition of their practical, useful, complete, and admirably compiled "Scottish Directory and Gazetteer." . . . Above all, the paper is far superior to that of most publications of the kind, and the book is stoutly bound.

Dundee Advertiser

A new edition of this valuable work has now been issued. Though there are no new features in this year's volume the arrangement is so complete that there is little left to be desired in this respect. The book is practically a carefully compiled Trades' Directory for Scotland, issued at a reasonable price. The Gazetteer gives in a concise form much topographical information, arranged alphabetically, and is most useful as a book of reference.

Edinburgh Evening News

"Macdonald's Scottish Directory and Gazetteer" is altogether astonishingly comprehensive. The volume is first of all practical, and has been carefully compiled. Since the last edition was issued the Directory has undergone a complete revision, and many new names have been added. . . . The arrangement of the book is good, and it is sure to be of service to business men and the public generally. The index is clear and complete.

Evening Times (Glasgow)

This is one of those bulky volumes which no well appointed office, hotel, or public institution can afford to be without. . . . It contains all the information which a business man requires in a Directory of Scotland. . . . The usefulness of the volume is enhanced by an appended Gazetteer, which gives the leading facts about every city, town, and village in Scotland. It is clearly printed on good paper, and strongly bound in red cloth.

Iron (London)

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—Messrs Wm. Macdonald & Co., Ltd., occupy in Scotland the position filled by Messrs Kelly & Co. in England, and their "Scottish Directory and Gazetteer," although necessarily not so bulky as the "London Directory," will be found to be as carefully compiled.

Invention

We are very pleased to welcome a new edition of this most useful work. It will be observed that great care has been taken in its compilation. The paper on which this work is printed is wonderfully strong and good, and the whole appearance of the Directory is such as should cause Messrs Kelly to look to their laurels. . . . In conclusion, we may say that all possible justice has been done to the subject-matter dealt with, and the general arrangement of the information contained.

Liverpool Mercury

The work of compilation of this comprehensive Directory has been ably carried out, and should be welcomed by commercial houses seeking a reliable trade directory.

Manchester Guardian

"Macdonald's Scottish Directory" is a useful compilation, which combines a commercial Directory and brief Gazetteer for the whole of Scotland.

Newcastle Chronicle

The present issue, which has been carefully brought up to date, and includes many thousand additional names, fully justifies the claim of the work to take a high place among publications of its kind.

Leeds Mercury

A new edition has been issued of this valuable and carefully-compiled work—a bulky volume, each edition being larger than its predecessor.

THIS popular Directory contains classified lists of the Manufacturers, Merchants, Traders, Agents, and Dealers throughout the Kingdom, and embraces over TWO THOUSAND of the Scottish Cities, Towns, and Villages. Each is annually canvassed personally by competent Agents, solely employed on the Company's Publications. The type is kept standing, thus reducing errors to a minimum. In the Gazetteer Section brief notices are given of the Cities, Towns, Parishes, Villages, and other territorial divisions in the Kingdom. Some idea may thus be formed of the labour and cost of collecting and arranging the information, and of the utility of the work as a reliable Book of Reference.

PRESS OPINIONS.

The Times

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—The work which Messrs Kelly have done so long and so successfully for London, and for England and Wales, Messrs Wm. Macdonald & Co., Ltd., Edinburgh, have accomplished for Scotland and for its two capitals. Many thousand names have been added to this edition. All possible justice is done even to the most distant parts of Scotland. . . . The work is thoroughly business-like in its scope and object.

The Scotsman

"The Scottish Directory and Gazetteer" is a useful and well-arranged book of business addresses covering the whole of Scotland. . . . Much credit is due to the compilers for their enterprise and industry in collecting the information. The general arrangement of the Directory remains the same as before. . . . In this issue the work has been thoroughly revised and brought abreast of recent changes.

The Daily Record (Glasgow)

Messrs William Macdonald & Co., Ltd., the Directory and Time-Table specialists, Edinburgh, send us a copy of their "Scottish Directory and Gazetteer," which has been thoroughly revised to date, and now presents trade lists which will probably bear the minutest inspection as to accuracy. At anyrate, in a few rather difficult tests to which we have subjected the Directory, we have found it correct.

Glasgow Herald

. . . The Directory, which has over 1000 pages, is furnished with a general map of Scotland and plans of the leading towns. The Gazetteer portion is a very useful feature, as it contains a list of the towns and villages of Scotland alphabetically arranged, together with brief information regarding population, etc. The book has been thoroughly revised and brought up to date, and the lists have been considerably extended.

Birmingham Daily Record

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—Messrs William Macdonald & Co., Ltd., Edinburgh, the Kellys of North Britain, have just issued another annual and much-enlarged edition of their practical, useful, complete, and admirably compiled "Scottish Directory and Gazetteer." . . . Above all, the paper is far superior to that of most publications of the kind, and the book is stoutly bound.

Dundee Advertiser

A new edition of this valuable work has now been issued. Though there are no new features in this year's volume the arrangement is so complete that there is little left to be desired in this respect. The book is practically a carefully compiled Trades' Directory for Scotland, issued at a reasonable price. The Gazetteer gives in a concise form much topographical information, arranged alphabetically, and is most useful as a book of reference.

Edinburgh Evening News

"Macdonald's Scottish Directory and Gazetteer" is altogether astonishingly comprehensive. The volume is first of all practical, and has been carefully compiled. Since the last edition was issued the Directory has undergone a complete revision, and many new names have been added. . . . The arrangement of the book is good, and it is sure to be of service to business men and the public generally. The index is clear and complete.

Evening Times (Glasgow)

This is one of those bulky volumes which no well appointed office, hotel, or public institution can afford to be without. . . . It contains all the information which a business man requires in a Directory of Scotland. . . . The usefulness of the volume is enhanced by an appended Gazetteer, which gives the leading facts about every city, town, and village in Scotland. It is clearly printed on good paper, and strongly bound in red cloth.

Iron (London)

MACDONALD'S SCOTTISH DIRECTORY.—Messrs Wm. Macdonald & Co., Ltd., occupy in Scotland the position filled by Messrs Kelly & Co. in England, and their "Scottish Directory and Gazetteer," although necessarily not so bulky as the "London Directory," will be found to be as carefully compiled.

Invention

We are very pleased to welcome a new edition of this most useful work. It will be observed that great care has been taken in its compilation. The paper on which this work is printed is wonderfully strong and good, and the whole appearance of the Directory is such as should cause Messrs Kelly to look to their laurels. . . . In conclusion, we may say that all possible justice has been done to the subject-matter dealt with, and the general arrangement of the information contained.

Liverpool Mercury

The work of compilation of this comprehensive Directory has been ably carried out, and should be welcomed by commercial houses seeking a reliable trade directory.

Manchester Guardian

"Macdonald's Scottish Directory" is a useful compilation, which combines a commercial Directory and brief Gazetteer for the whole of Scotland.

Newcastle Chronicle

The present issue, which has been carefully brought up to date, and includes many thousand additional names, fully justifies the claim of the work to take a high place among publications of its kind.

Leeds Mercury

A new edition has been issued of this valuable and carefully-compiled work—a bulky volume, each edition being larger than its predecessor.

BUTCHERS' AND MEAT SALESMEN'S DIRECTORY AND DIARY FOR GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND.

Published Annually, Price 7s. 6d.

Delivered Free.

I N respectfully calling the attention of the Trade to a new Edition of the above Work, now being prepared, the Publishers beg to tender their best thanks for the liberal patronage accorded to their former issues, and confidently rely upon the continuance of that support.

This Work is the only Directory published to the Trade. All information is thoroughly revised every year by a staff of qualified Agents, solely employed on this Publication, and thus brought up to date. It contains a list of Butchers, Pork Butchers, Meat Salesmen, Cattle Salesmen, Poulterers, and Allied Trades of the British Isles; Bye-Laws relating to Abattoirs, Seizures of Meat, &c.; Statistics of Imports of Foreign and Colonial Cattle and Dead Meat; also other useful information appertaining to the Trade. Some idea may thus be formed of the labour and cost of collecting and arranging the information, and of the utility of the Work as a reliable book of reference.

PRESS NOTICES.

Scotoman

A large and roomy blank-book, interleaved with blotting paper and supplemented by a carefully edited compendium of addresses and information useful to butchers and dealers in meat.

North British Agriculturist

It is a big-sized volume of some two or three hundred pages, and in addition to ample memoranda space for the year, contains what looks like a full list of the fleshing trade of the kingdom. Beginning with London and its suburbs, it works up through the principal towns to Scotland, and thence to Ireland. The list must have been compiled at an expenditure of much patient industry and resource, and it forms a medium of reference which we should think would be of great value and usefulness to butchers and others interested in the fleshing trade. We can confidently commend it to members of the trade.

Glaagow Herald

Besides a useful interleaved diary, the folio volume contains a directory of tradesmen in every city, town, and village in the three kingdoms, bye-laws relating to abattoirs, seizures of meat, &c., statistics of cattle and dead-meat imports, abstracts of Acts of Parliament referring to the adulteration of foods, and much besides that is likely to be helpful in the conduct of business. The volume is well got up and substantially bound.

Dundee Advertiser

All its information has been thoroughly revised and brought up to date by a staff of qualified agents. It contains a list of butchers, pork butchers, meat salesmen, cattle salesmen, poulterers, and allied trades for every city, town, and village in the United Kingdom.

Northern Whig (Belfast)

It has now reached its third edition, and will be found of great service, as, in addition to a very full directory and a useful diary, it gives bye-laws relating to abattoirs, seizures of meat, &c., statistics of imports of foreign and colonial cattle and dead meat, abstracts from Acts of Parliament relating to adulteration of foods, and a great variety of other legal and general information.

Farmers' Gazette (Dublin)

A portly and substantially-bound volume. Though this is only its third edition, the work has already made itself very popular among the members of the butchering fraternity. This directory, which consists of 200 pages, will prove very useful and reliable for reference to all engaged in the meat trade. Ireland is fully represented in it.

LUTHER BROS.' CARBORUNDUM TOOL GRINDER.

SUITABLE FOR EVERY PERSON.

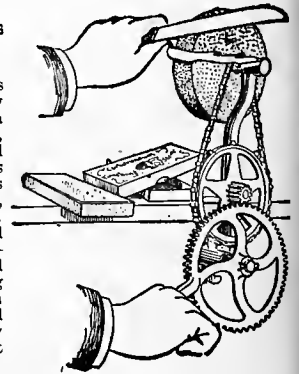

Write for Particulars, as this grinds Twenty Times Faster than an Ordinary Grinder.

Scissors' Sharpener
as well as other Tools.

The "Saturday Evening Post," 10th May 1902, says
 of Carborundum :—

"Who among ordinary laymen would dream that Carborundum is entitled to be called an epoch-making product? Yet it is so put down by the world's engineers. There is practically no division of human life in which it does not figure to-day. It is the Greatest Abrasive Ever Known, and is used alike for polishing the egg-cup on the breakfast table, and shaping the piston of the great ocean greyhound. It hones the razor, puts an edge on the sword, polishes the diamond, points the tool that punches rivet holes in the armour of the great battleship. It polishes the shoe sole, the kid glove, and smooths down the angles of the great telescope lens.
 Mr Acheson served six years under Edison in America and Europe, and thoroughly mastered the science of electricity. One day, as if by inspiration, he recalled that in one of his experiments the fusing of clay and carbon produced a substance harder than anything then known. Comparing it with emery, corundum, and other abrasives, the fact was forced upon Mr Acheson that he had a fortune within his grasp. How well he mastered the situation is demonstrated in the fact that while Carborundum to-day is sold at a nominal figure, the first consignment was for 200 carats at 1s. 6d. a carat."

HIGHLY CELEBRATED FLUID

EXTRACT OF ANNATTO,

FOR

COLOURING CHEESE AND BUTTER.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.—The superiority of this truly excellent, pure, unadulterated Annatto consists in its producing in Cheese and Butter that rich, permanent, bright, GOLDEN COWSLIP TINT so much desired by all Cheese and Butter Factors, and so universally approved in the London and other great markets.

Messrs R. J. FULLWOOD & BLAND'S fluid Extract of Annatto now stands unrivalled all over the World. It is purely vegetable, can always be relied upon, uniform in strength and quality, and cheaper than any other article. To protect the consumers from fraud Messrs R. J.
